This is my friend's pet cat that I take care of from time to time. Aya-chan (female). She's freeloading off of me, but she has a bigger attitude than my cat, so I'm revealing to the entire country an embarrassing picture of her being cornered after having stolen some food. Aahh, I feel better.

Honorifics Explained

Throughout the Del Rey Manga books you will find Japanese honorifics left intact in the translations. For those not familiar with how the Japanese use honorifics and, more important, how they differ from American honorifics, we present this brief overview.

Politeness has always been a critical facet of Japanese culture. Ever since the feudal era, when Japan was a highly stratified society, use of honorifics—which can be defined as polite speech that indicates relationship or status—has played an essential role in the Japanese language. When addressing someone in Japanese, an honorific usually takes the form of a suffix attached to one's name (example: "Asuna-san") is used as a title at the end of one's name, or appears in place of the name itself (example: "Negi-sensei" or simply "Sensei!").

Honorifics can be expressions of respect or endearment. In the context of manga and anime, honorifics give insight into the nature of the relationship between characters. Many English translations leave out these important honorifics and, therefore, distort the feel of the original Japanese. Because Japanese honorifics contain nuances that English honorifics lack, it is our policy at Del Rey not to translate them. Here, instead, is a guide to some of the honorifics you may encounter in Del Rey Manga:

-san — This is the most common honorific and is equivalent to Mr., Miss, Ms., or Mrs. It is the all-purpose honorific and can be used in any situation where politeness is required.

-sama — This is one level higher than "-san" and is used to confer great respect.

-dono — This comes from the word "tono," which means "lord." It is an even higher level than "-sama" and confers utmost respect.

-kun — This suffix is used at the end of boys' names to express familiarity or endearment. It is also sometimes used by men among friends, or when addressing someone younger or of a lower station.

-chan — This is used to express endearment, mostly toward girls. It is also used for little boys, pets, and even among lovers. It gives a sense of childish cuteness.

Bozu — This is an informal way to refer to a boy similar to the English terms "kid" and "squirt."

Sempai/Senpai — This title suggests that the addressee is one's senior in a group or organization. It is most often used in a school setting, where underclassmen refer to their upperclassmen as "sempai." It can also be used in the workplace such as when a newer employee addresses an employee who has seniority in the company.

Kohai — This is the opposite of "sempai" and is used toward underclassmen in school or newcomers in the workplace. It connotes that the addressee is of a lower station.

Sensei — Literally meaning "one who has come before," this title is used for teachers, doctors, or masters of any profession or art.

[blank] — This is usually forgotten in these lists, but it is perhaps the most significant difference between Japanese and English. The lack of honorific means that the speaker has permission to address the person in a very intimate way. Usually, only family, spouses, or very close friends have this kind of permission. Known as yobisute. It can be gratifying when someone who has earned the intimacy starts to call one by one's name without an honorific. But when that intimacy hasn't been earned, it can be very insulting.

Did something happen with you and Izumi?
During the typhoon.
Huh? Not really...
Why don't you just ask Izumi-sempai?
Izumi won't tell me anything when I ask him, that's why I'm asking you.
...Well, he would be too embarrassed to say he mistook a gecko for a ghost, got scared, and came crying to me.
Hehehe
I'm telling you nothing happened. Really♡
Don't lie!
I feel a little sorry for him, so I guess I won't say anything.

KAN
Here I thought I could sleep all day when we got back from Okinawa...
MUTTER
MUTTER
We're together for the club every day, so please cheer up already.
We're really sorry! We feel terrible.
GOHN
I'm sorry, Izumi. I just got careless.
Sheesh, they're right. He's ruining our summer vacation.
It was so much fun, I thought I might spend the rest of my life with the wildcats.
I even got to see an Iriomote wildcat.
Aahh, that was fun, going to Okinawa.
What are you talking about?

...You're right. Izumi says he doesn't want to go.

We don't have to go out of our way to invite him if he doesn't want to come!

Raargh, this is annoying.

For a guy, he's awfully stubborn and whiny.

MUKA

What's with that monotone reading!!?

You're not sincere!

Who said I wasn't going!!?

FILE

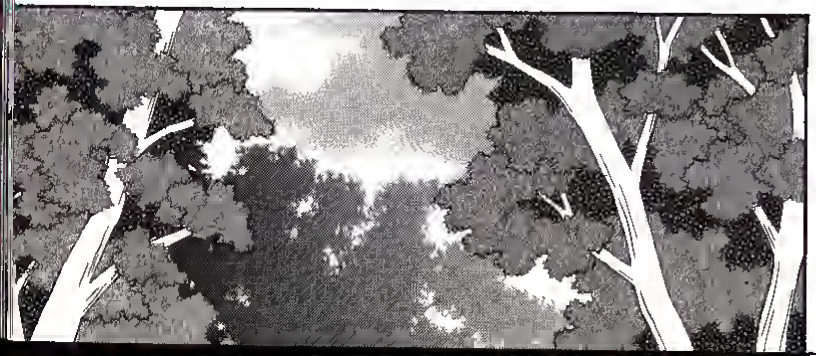
Hey wait! Why are you giving up already? Normally, you'd try one more time!

So I guess we'll go without him this time.



Let's all go there and relax!

A trip to entertain Izumi-sempai!!

Yama-no-Oku Inn

Hey, look! We found a nice, rustic hot springs inn!

You wouldn't notice if I wasn't there, anyway.

KARARA

Why don't you go without me?

"It'd be no fun without Izumi-sempai."

"I'd sure love to go with Izumi-sempai."

I'd sure love to go with Izumi-sempai.

It'd be no fun without Izumi-sempai.

Eeehhh?

Hey, Suzuki. You say something, too!

We said we're sorry!

Of course we'd notice.

...I don't know if it's rustic or just rusted through...
How did they get the picture to look like this...?
Yama-no-Oku Inn
A peaceful spot, surrounded by nature.
Hello—
Will we be okay here?
Dunno...
It's totally a scam!
We'd better report them to JARO.
For now, let's check it out.

...Who was saying, "Why don't you go without me"?
Ch, ch, ch.
We're kind of doing the same thing we did in Okinawa...

Yoshi Bon
Hey, guys.
Stick close to me so you don't get lost!

There! Is that it?
I'll carry your bag, Hana-chan.
And he's the one that wanted to come the most. He's really so pretentious.

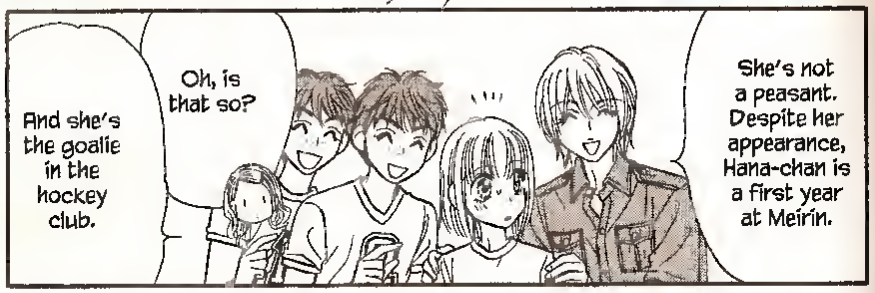
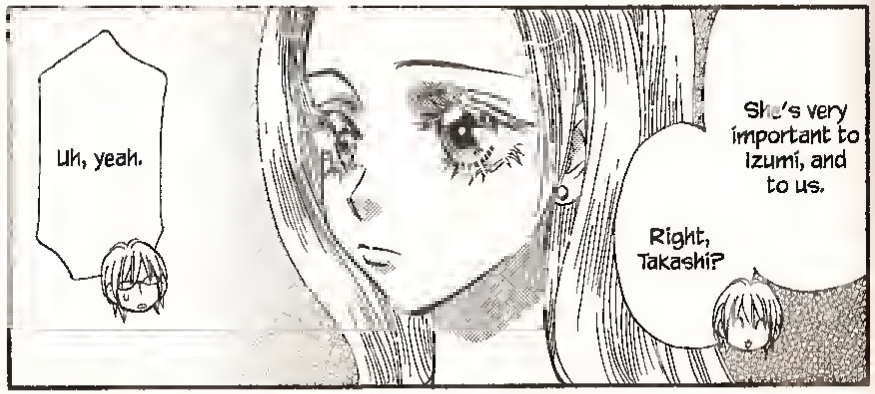
Hey, Hana. Say something in your defense.
She's obviously a peasant. She doesn't suit you, Cousin Izumi.
Easier said than done...
Peasant?
She doesn't quite understand, but she knows she's being insulted.



And she's the goalie in the hockey club.
Oh, is that so?
She's not a peasant. Despite her appearance, Hana-chan is a first year at Meirin.



Uh, yeah.
She's very important to Izumi, and to us.
Right, Takashi?

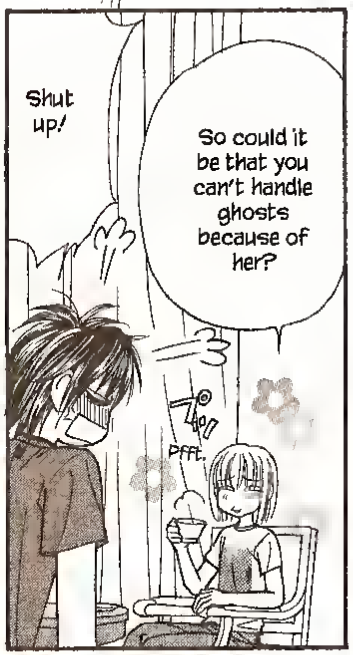
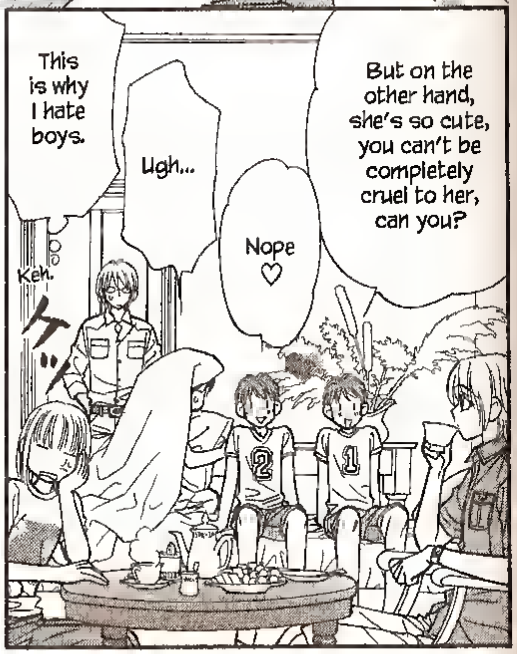
There's no way...

I despise ghosts and fortune-telling!!
Ever since I knew her, nothing good has come of being around her.
If I get a weird prediction, I get sick from worrying about it.
And she just picks up random ghosts everywhere.
There are a lot of them, especially in London!!



Shut up!
So could it be that you can't handle ghosts because of her?
Pfft.



This is why I hate boys.
Ugh...
Nope ♡
